Property Name: Lee Graves
Survey No.: CH-181

Property Address	12620 Crain Highway, Newburg, Charles County
Owner Name/Address	Potomac Electric Power Company / Corporate Tax Department - Room 421, 1900 Pennsylvania Ave NW, Washington D.C. 20068
Year Built	Circa 1790, No Longer Extant

Description:

A one-page summary of the Lee Graves is included in the survey materials held by the Maryland Historical Trust. The summary sheet states that the Lee Graves is a small plot which, "contains the graves of several members of the Lee Family, including Squire Richard Lee, builder of the Blenheim mansion and Commander of the North Potomac for thirty years." The sheet also states that the cemetery plot is in Newburg, Maryland and dates to the 1790s. However, a location map was not included in this information. The Maryland Historical Trust index quadrangle maps showing the location of surveyed resources marks the location of the Lee Graves on the North Colonial Beach VA-MD quadrangle, on the east bank of the Potomac River, just south of the Governor Harry W. Nice Memorial Bridge (CH-376). This site is the present location of the Morgantown Generating Plant of the Potomac Electric Power Company. An investigation of the area revealed the location of the Lee Graves to be a disturbed area occupied by industrial waste ponds and storage tanks. Therefore, the Lee Graves are not extant at this site.

National Register Evaluation:

There has been no evaluation of National Register-eligibility prepared for the Lee Graves. The site of the Lee Graves is recommended as not eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. The cemetery plot is no longer extant and the site is currently associated with the Morgantown Generating Plant of the Potomac Electric Power Company. As the resource is no longer extant, the property does not possess significance in terms of National Register Criteria A, B, or C. An archaeological investigation of the site has been conducted, therefore the eligibility of the property under Criterion D cannot be assessed at this time.

The Lee family cemetery is the only remaining evidence of the property's former association with the Lee family of Blenheim. The site is found on the property of the Mirant, formerly PEPCO, powerplant on the south side of the Harry W. Nice Bridge, overlooking the Potomac River. The Lee cemetery site is significant for its association with the Lee family of Maryland, one of the most prominent families in the area. Squire Richard Lee of Blenheim was the son of merchant Philip Lee, who once served as Naval Officer of the "North Potomac District". Philip Lee, the son of Col. Richard Lee the emigrant to Virginia, settled at Lee's Purchase in Charles County. Squire Richard Lee was the oldest son of Philip Lee and was educated in England before being admitted to Middle Temple as a member of the bar in May 1719. After returning to Maryland he served as Naval Officer for the Potomac River. He was president of the Governor's Council of Maryland for many years. Unlike his Virginia cousins Richard Henry Lee of Chantilly and Light Horse Harry Lee of Stratford Hall, Squire Richard Lee was a staunch Loyalist. The cemetery contains the graves of Richard Lee, his wife Grace R. Lee, and their daughter Alice Weems. Also buried here is Russell Lee, whose tomb describes him as "the last fond hope of a respectable and a numerous and once extensive family". Russell was likely a son or grandson of Richard and Grace Lee.

Prepare both a one paragraph summary and a comprehensive description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The Lee family cemetery is the only remaining evidence of the property's former association with the Lee family of Blenheim. The site is found on the property of the Mirant, formerly PEPCO powerplant on the south side of the Harry W. Nice Bridge, overlooking the Potomac River. Mirant maintains the cemetery which is enclosed by a chain link fence. The cemetery stands on open clear ground within view of the Nice bridge. A monument erected by PEPCO stands near the center of the plot. All memorial stones are flat and likely carved from marble. Many are in poor condition. The cemetery contains the graves of Richard Lee, his wife Grace R. Lee, and their daughter Alice Weems. Also buried here is Russell Lee, whose tomb describes him as "the last fond hope of a respectable and a numerous and once extensive family". Russell was likely a son or grandson of Richard and Grace Lee.

The exact location of Blenheim has never been determined. Research conducted by J. Richard Rivoire in the 1970's and 80's suggests that this site was a significant distance north of the current site. Accordingly, Rivoire identifies this location as the site of Rosedale or Ferry Farm, a 1780 gambrel roof structure erected by Robert or John Laidler. (1)
